

Hi my name is Chris Wareing my youngest daughter Nichole (20) lost her own daughter Alessa on July 25, 2008. Alessa was stillborn and buried in the cemetery at her great grandparents church. Nichole and Zack Mulvaney are Alessa's parents and I'm Nichole's Mom. They are low income Zack is currently unemployed. Alessa still has no headstone. Nichole had another baby exactly a year later (this last summer in July) this time her daughter came 4 months early and weighed only 1 pound and 6 ounces. Today she is 6 months old and thriving. Nichole is now pregnant a 3rd time. Alessa is buried in the crossroads cemetery in Plano Iowa. Not sure if you pick families that far away but we would love to give Alessa a headstone. I feel bad that she does not have one. Thank you for your time.

The funeral home paid for the funeral and the burial plot was her great grandma's spot and she gave it to Alessa.

I don't know yet the purpose our angels are in heaven now but I'm sure there has got to be a reason. I never had anything more devastating in my life happen than losing my granddaughter but in my heart I just keep hoping there was some reason I don't yet know. I want her life to have meant something no matter how short it was.

Peace be with you,
Chris Wareing

<http://grandmaofanangel.blogspot.com/> This is my blog about Alessa and Rosie (she spent 3 months in the NICU)